

The king in the north

A inexperienced general but surrounded by the greatest tacticians of the north has had quarrels with prince joffrey fighting for vengeance against the lannisters for the capture and murder of his traitorous father and to "save" sansa stark he led

Robb Stark

Grey Wind

forces to break the siege of riverrun and captured jaime lannister of the kingsguard This move crippled the lannister army and separated them from their supply line
That's what i was able to find m'lord
Grey wind is the dire wolf pup that was raised by robb loyal to the death and according to battle reports a vicious animal that causes the soldiers to rout and horses to panic

Jaime Lannister
Commander of the Kingsguard
Kingslayer

Jaime Lannister newly made commander of the Kingsguard the Kingslayer responsible for the death of the previous Targaryen King former leader of a large portion of Lannister forces we put an end to that today this man is now our prisoner he for too long has been marauding across our lands killing and burning we put an end to that this man is an embarrassment to the Kingsguard he may have fought boldly but look at him now the man that stands before us has transformed from a lion to a mere cat

The hound is the bodyguard to King Joffrey so called do to the helmet he wears made in the shape of a snarling hound he wears it to hide his disfigured burned face his face isn't what matters though he is a great swordsman and now a member of the Kingsguard Lord Robb you wouldn't want to fight the hound he held off his brother to protect Sir Loras Tyrell at the tourney when the hound got mad and broke the rules of the match The man they call the Mountain that rides a massive brute who is said to be the largest man in Westeros now because that fat pig Robert is dead just kidding sir but either way he is a force to behold but know that his little brother was able to hold him at bay he is reckless

Jon has been doing great on the wall he had a mental dilemma of whether to join Rob or to stay and honor his oath so it shows he hasn't forgotten you He sends his sorrow for lord stark him and his ghost have made a great addition to our ranks i've taken jon as my apprentice i'll teach him the ways him and ghost earned a reward for saving my life my sons old blade reforged it was given a wolf pommel yet he decided to keep the name longclaw his reasoning wolves have claws as much as bears do This one has been very useful while jon was busy swearing his oaths to the old gods among a grove of weirwoods ghost found the bodies of two lost rangers we brought them back to castle black to study but they rose from the dead and the two came to my tower to kill the wight and ghost was vicious to the old ranger saving mine and jon's life To the stark family
From. The Old Bear

Tyrion Lannister's forces are from the people of the hill tribals from the Riverrun region they are brutal fighters but feral and undisciplined but any decent force will be able to defeat them

Tyrion the bastard dwarf of Tywin Lannister he now leads his own forces a group of different tribals had united to fight under his rule he is a very brilliant mind led to the cause by his deformities rather than look to war he looked to love and is very well read and knows lots of history but from my time holding him captive I found he was very proficient with an axe he is becoming a leader in his own right I warn you with this one don't let him gain an army of trained disciplined soldiers his mind is his sharpest blade don't give him something to apply it to in war
